LANSBURGH & BRO. PROMOTER COEN ACCUSES QUESADA

Says the Cuban Has Played Him False.

Copy of the Contract Made by the

A Masterly Stroke of Enterprise Own Almost Everything in Cuba.

Gonzala de Quesada, the Cuban repre sentative here, who was recently deposed by what is known as the Cuban Assemb y sitting near Havana, and who now c'aims to be retained in his official capacity here by the popular sentiment of his people, has suddenly been called upon by disappointed promoters of vast interests in West Indian enterprises to explain the absolute worth lessuess of certain contracts which he en-tered into with them, promising to lend his aid to their schemes and endorse their projects with his influence at both the erican and Cuban capitals-for stipu ited considerations.

An elaborate expose of Senor Quesala has just been made by C. M. Coan, of New promoter who represens the syndicate that has been trying to negotiate a Cuban loan of $20,000,000, to be secured by first mortgage bands on the revenues of the island. Mr. Coen returned from Cuba last week, and came to Washington full of wrath against Senor Quesa-da, and determined to end that gentleman's career in Washington as the sal's agent of Cuban franchises. Mr. Coen frankly ascerts that he was deceived by Quesada, and his chief motive in giving the story pub-licity is to even matters up, but this does not necessarily interfere with his a tega-tions, which are supported by documentary evidence in the shape of a copy of the alleged contract which he exacted from the Cuban diplomat. Mr. Coen's story is substantially as follows.

Last November he came to Washington representing the American and tailes Company, of New York, and approached Senor Quesada with a view to securing, if possible, that gentleman's endorsement of certain schemes financial and other of certain schemes, financial and otherwise, which it was proposed to float in Cuba. Quesada entered with unexpected spirit into the thing, and listened with eager interest to the representations of the New York promoter, who grew more ex-acting in his demands as the willingness of the diplomat to come to terms became more and more evident. The result of several days' negotiations was a contract, which Mr. Coen says he was half ashamed o carry back to New York, so utterly unloyal was it to the interests of Cuba at oming from her supposed diplomatic esentative in the American Capital. In this contract, according to Coen, the party of the second part, which was Quesada, bound himself to en-dorse any and all projects of the American and Indies Company in Cuba. and to use his influence both in the Cuban capital and in Washington to further the schemes of the concern, for which he was to receive in return a certain number of shares of stock in the company, the amount thereafter to be specified. 20 per cent of all profits accruing from the operations, and an annual fee of $5,000 for acting as the nominal counselor of the American and Indies Company. through the efforts of the said second party during his lifetime.

As a further consideration the said second party is to have assigned to him or for his benefit and note use by said first party a block of stock in the above mentioned company, to be agreed upon. It is hereby understood and agreed, and the intention of the first and second parties bereto, that they shall undertake to hold a majority of the stock of earl company, to the end that the percentage above mentioned to be paid said second party shall be of value in accordance with the services rendered and the high position and standing of the party of the second part.

And further, as soon as said company begins actual operations, a salary of not less than five thousand dollars (35,000) shall be paid the second party annually. The second party further agrees to use his utmost influence with the Cuban Government or its citizens to secure the concessions, franciuses, and business advantages desired by said first party, and also with the citizens of the United States when such influence will have sweight and advantage, by virtue of his high political standing and connection with the Cuban cause.

The first party hereby hinds himself to always.

With full confidence and fidelity we each bin marives together for mutual advantages, assistant tance, and profit, not transgressing the laws of or respective Stataes.

I. Frank D. Blackstone, a notary public in and for the District aforeseid, do hereby certify that the foregoing and attached copy of contract of agreement between Charles M. Coen and Gonzala de Quesada, dated November I. Isos, is a true and exact copy of the original, said copies having personally been made by me upon the type-street from said original contract and compared by me with the said original agreement or contract. Given under my land and notarial seal this 28th day of March, 1859.

Miss Farnsworth entertained at luncheon years and proposed that Mr. Coen is converted to the convested and in the convested an

It is not understood that Mr. Coen is dissatisfied with the terms of this con-tract. In securing it he believed himself to be particularly fortunate, and when he presented it to his associate promoter in New York as the result of his labors in Washington with the Cuban representative he felt very much pleased with him Soon thereafter he repaired to Cuba, with the double purpose of negotiating the $26,000,000 bond issue and marking out some choice franchises to be claimed by the American and Indies Company under the terms of the contract with Senor

It was then that Mr. Coen con-siders he made the discovery that he had been made a monkey of. Ac-cording to his story, he appeared on came after him and went away with cove nants with the Cuban diplomat which were ar more to the point and harder on uba, if such a thing were possible. When Mr. Coen returned to this country last week he resolved to even up things with the man who had been willing to bind himself for mutual advantage and profit with the projectors of Cuban schemes, and e came to Washington with the intention of having a copy made of the contract, which he did, as printed above. It is now declared, not alone by Mr. Coen, that Senor Quesada has lately gotten himself into very had odor with the Cuban people, wind of his negotiations having reached the island, and this may now be taken as an explanation of the action of the Cuban Assembly in summarily deposing him from his "high standing" as the island's diplomatic representative at Wash-

It will be remembered that when the two delegates from the Cuban Assembly, Senors Villalon and Hevia, arrived in Waxhington last week Senor Quesada suddenly disappeared and was seen no more until after the departure of the men whom he claimed as enemies. They came here to talk this Government into raising the appropriation of $3,000,000 with which to pay off the Cuban army to at least $10,-000,000, and having failed in this, they set their faces Cubaward, vowing that some day the United States would be very sorry.

Quesada Reappears. They had been out of the city but a few hours when Quesada reappeared, and gave to the press an interview with himself, in which he called his enemies, the Cuban delegates, robbers, although he dressed his adjectives in diplo sent the popular sentiment of his people, and when deposed several weeks ago he waxed vociferous in his protestations of loyalty to the Cuban cause, refusing, in-cidentally, to quit his post here in Washington and resign his "high political standing," which had been used, according to his critics, to such goo effect in exchanging Cuban franchises and privileges for hig salaries, blocks of stock, and percentages of prospective profits. To all this there is more significance than appears on the surface. Many men of high standing in the affairs of this country are reputed to be financially concerned in the future of the American and Indies Company, which is said to have a'ready been put in possession of valuable fran-chises in Cuba. Men whose names are fre-quently associated with vast enterprises, sometimes of doubtful character and usual ly of the subsidized variety, are now con-nected by gossip and rumor with this New York company. It is alleged that a shrewd game is now being played against Cuba, and Senor Quesada is alleged to be associated with nearly all of them. He derives no income from the Cuban government, nor from the Cuban Junta in New York, according to his own statement, and yet he has lived for several years in fashionable apartments at the Raicigh Hotel here. papers as one of Quesada's persistent po litical opponents, antagonizing for publicity various projects advanced by the Cuban n in Cuba's behalf, and yet Senor Quesada is very much at home in the Mason residence, and fre-quently makes Sunday calls upon the Sen-ator, taking his wife and daughter with him for a social visit. One of these oc cured last Sunday.

Senor Quesada, when seen by a Times reporter and interrogated relative to the Coen contract, he replied: 'I have nothing to say.' Many other questions were asked him bearing upon the subject of the nu-merous franchises and grabs in Cuba in which his name has been frequently men-tioned, and to all of these he simply said; 'I have nothing to say.
